EDMONTONIANS will observe Safe Driving Week, December 1 to 7. With the Alberta death traffic toll over 200 this year, this picture may serve as a reminder of the dangers of careless driving habits. One woman was killed when this car rampaged out of control into a group of mourners at a funeral in Glendale, N.Y. Eleven others were injured. The body of Mrs. Rachel Laub, 50, lies beneath a blanket near the rear wheel of the car in the cemetery.

Stanley Looks Moose Square In Eyes, Forgets To Shoot

HYLO — A surprising episode occurred some time ago when Stanley Grandish was out hunting ducks. Establishing himself cosily in a hiding place made out of sheaves in a field, Stanley sat down comfortably and scanned the horizon for the evasive ducks.

After a short time he heard footsteps approaching, but paid no attention at first, thinking it was some other hunters. However when the footsteps came closer and closer he wondered if it might not be someone whom he knew so he parted the sheaves to have a look.

Soft, velvet eyes of a moose stared back at him. Startled, the moose stopped short and dug his forefeet into the ground. Stunned utterly, Stanley's reflexes didn't work so fast for he held on to the sheaves. Next moment the moose made his nonchalant way into the nearby woods, gallantly holding his massive antlers aloft.

Before his disappearance, however, pandemonium broke out among several other people as they called to each other "A Moose, A Moose". Even the domestic animals hurriedly grouped themselves together as if for defense.

No doubt this could have been the same moose that S. Gushinsky trailed for miles before realizing it was not one of his stray cows.

Women's Institute Hears Resume Of Plans For Mobile Chest X-Ray

Lac la Biche — The regular monthly meeting of the WI was held at the home of Mrs. H. Linnell, with 20 members present.

The meeting was chaired by the president, Mrs. S. Hamar, and in the absence of Mrs. W. E. Coast, due to illness, Mrs. F. W. McMillan acted as secretary.

Reports were given by Mrs. E. J. Woynarowich, treasurer, Mrs. H. Linnell, hospital visitation convener and Mrs. D. Joncas, librarian. It was noted in Mrs. Joncas' report that the circulation of books for the month of October was 2868.

The ladies decided to give a donation of $25 to the skating rink fund and Mrs. A. Mastaler offered to represent the WI on the skating rink committee.

The president gave a resume of the plans for the mobile chest x-ray to be held Nov. 28, 30 and Dec. 1.

It was decided to complete plans concerning Christmas hampers to be given to two or three needy families, at the December meeting.

Plans were made for the annual Christmas party for children of W.I. members. The party will be held in Mrs. Mastaler's room as usual; the date will be set at the next meeting. Mrs. Ida Peresini and Mrs. Irene Uganitz volunteered to buy the gifts and treats for the party.

Mrs. H. Linnell offered to purchase the gifts and cards for the patients in hospital at Christmas time, as in previous years. This act of kindness is always much appreciated by the patients.

The annual election of officers and the reading of yearly reports will be held Dec. 1 in the library, after which the ladies will have lunch down town. Mrs. J. Hayduk and Mrs. M. Hamar volunteered to act as the nominating committee. A door prize is to be given at this meeting.

Mrs. J. Hayduk offered her services to audit the books before the annual meeting.

Many suggestions for topics to be chosen for demonstrations by the district home economist were submitted for roll call.

Mrs. Linnell assisted by Mrs. J. KoZak, co-hostess, served lunch to conclude a pleasant evening.

Vaccination To Begin Soon

He urges all farmers who wish to take advantage of this service to return cards immediately so that the vaccination program can get under way as soon as possible. Progress In Operations Of Bank Noted In Balance Sheet Figures

Balance sheet figures for The Toronto-Dominion Bank for the year ended October 31 last reflect further progress in The Bank's operations with total assets rising by $46 millions to $1,790 millions.

Earnings for the year increased to $11.4 millions, representing a gain of $1.6 millions.

Provision for income taxes is up $890,000 to over $5.9 millions, leaving a net profit of $5.4 millions, which is a gain of $717,000.

Additional shares were issued during 1959 and on the average for the year net profit per share, after income taxes, was $2.33 compared with $2.37 in 1958.

The drop in per share earnings is due to the larger number of shares outstanding, since total profits show an increase.

Total deposits are $24 millions higher, amounting to $1,678 millions. The increase is accounted for by an expansion in personal savings deposits from $819 millions to $843 millions. Deposits by other banks rose by $73 millions but this was offset by declines in Government balances and in other deposits, more especially those of corporations.

As usual, The Bank's statement shows a strong position. Cash assets are equivalent to 15 per cent of all deposits. Readily realizable assets, including cash, equal 51.7 per cent of liabilities to the public.

Health Through Chiropractic
DIABETES

For years Diabetes Mellitis has been considered incurable, and the use of insulin has been relied upon in order to save the life of the diabetic. Before the discovery of insulin the mortality rate among these patients was very high.

Today, as the result of scientific advances in the application of Chiropractic, many diabetics are being restored to normal health, are able to discontinue the use of insulin, and are in time able to resume normal diet.

The Loffler Chiropractic Clinic of Miami, Florida, has specialized in the care of diabetics. For the past five years this clinic has been reserved for diabetic patients. Dr. Loffler, in summarizing the work of the first three years, reports that in fully fifty per cent of the cases the patients recovered completely, and in every case some reduction was made in the daily insulin requirements.

All Chiropractics have experienced similar results with diabetics, especially if the condition has been less than ten years duration.

Diabetes is caused by the inability of the pancreas to supply the necessary quantity of insulin to meet daily requirements. Since the functioning of this gland is dependent upon energy supplied by the nerves controlling it, it is easy to see how, by freeing these nerves of pressure caused by vertebral misalignment, the disease may be corrected.

On the basis of results achieved over the years, scientific Chiropractic offers diabetics to normal health.

Many district hunters have been successful with big game hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Nick Strayski visited friends and relatives in Vilna recently.

Frank and John Roskewich were recent visitors in the Smoky Lake district.

Lawrence Gaucher, who was employed in British Columbia for the summer, is now at home.

Vandals Shoot Power Insulators; Utilities Company Offers Reward

Canadian Utilities, Limited, is offering a reward of one hundred dollars for information leading to the arrest and conviction of a person or persons guilty of shooting insulators on their power lines, it was announced.

Every year lives are endangered by irresponsible persons who use power line insulators as rifle targets. This practice is much more than just an inconvenience to the company, it can, quite literally be fatal.

Not only could a line be severed and fall on the shooter, but broken insulators can go unnoticed for a short time in dry weather, but the first rainfall can cause a short circuit causing a power failure. Repairs are made only at great danger to the life of the serviceman. Besides which aircraft landing and innumerable others are dependent on a continuous flow of elecricity. Businesses suffer too. Hatcheries, locker plants, and similar enterprises can be severely affected by a power failure.

Canadian Utilities is determined to supply constant dependable electric power. The public is, therefore, urgently requested to report any information or knowledge of the identity of guilty party or parties to the local representative of Canadian Utilities, Limited, or the RCMP.

Moved by Councillor Bezubiak that the reserve bids of properties which are offered for sale under the Tax Recovery Act on Wednesday, Dec. 2, be the amounts as listed in Appendix "A" of the minutes.

Town Council agreed that skating rink fees be the same as last year. Season's fees to be paid at the commencement of skating for that season and only those that have paid their fees are allowed to skate. Fees to be paid to Mr. Maslak, Mr. Paul Korchinsni or the caretaker when appointed. Arrangements to be made with the Mundare School as regards hockey practices.

Town Council instructed Mr. Maslak to have the colored street lights turned on every Saturday night and on such other nights that this would be appropriate.

The question of grading of roads was discussed by Town Council. Pending a reply to a letter sent to M.D. of Lamont, this was left till the next meeting.

Rink Painted By Redwater Curlers

REDWATER — For the past month and a half volunteer curling members have been busy painting the interior of the curling rink for the first time. The walls are painted white, pillars and walks are green. Now that the ice is in the place it is most attractive and the members feel proud to have one of the finest rinks in the country. The executive extends thanks to all volunteers for their help.

Curling will get underway this week with a mixed bonspiel and the committee expects to see everyone out curling in this 'spiel.

Prospects for curlers look much better this year with many new and old members curling.

The caretaker for this year is Joe Klem, who is proving most capable.

Curlers Win Game At Derrick Club

VILNA—Four curlers motored to Edmonton Nov. 11 for a friendship curling bonspiel at the Derrick club. Vilna players were Metro Viteychuk, skip; Nick Taschuk, Nick Harasen and Jim Pennington. They played one game in the morning and won.

The group was invited to attend a dinner at the Derrick. After lunch they played a get-together game with Lamont as they were the only two teams left. All the rest had gone to watch the football game.

HANDSOME TROPICAL HOUSE PLANT

Maranta bicolor is a house plant from Brazil which has picturesque leaves. It is frequently sold in this country under the name of Rabbit's Foot plant because of the peculiar markings on its leaves.

It is a dwarf plant and the leaves have a velvety appearance, further enhanced by the striking brown markings against a light green color.

Maranta plants need lots of moisture at their roots. They also enjoy humid air. To provide such air for this plant, set pans of water around or place the plant on a tray filled with pebbles which you can keep moistened.

As shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph, it grows best when the pot it is growing in is set inside a larger pot. The space between the two pots can be filled with sand or peat moss. This type of filling material, once wet, holds moisture for a longer period and helps to keep the plant from drying out. Maranta plants require a rich soil. Do not set them in a sunny window. They prefer moderate light.

New leaves on this plant are especially interesting since they shoot up in a tightly rolled spiral, the size of a lead pencil, as shown in the Garden-Graph. Then day by day, each tightly rolled leaf gradually unfolds.

Secret Report Being Prepared

By Harry Carrigan

RCMP investigators arrived in Edmonton last week in the course of an extensive probe into illegal smuggling of Chinese into Canada, including Edmonton. Two Chinese-Canadians have already been convicted of smuggling. The Sun learned that Inspector Harold Price, former chief of the narcotics squad in Vancouver, and Corporal Jack Medley have spent seven weeks in Hong Kong, jumping-off point for the smuggling ring, studying police files there.

The possibility of illegal Chinese living in Edmonton was raised in city police court some time ago by Magistrate Dupre, when an aged Chinese appeared to testify against a younger Chinese said to be his "son", charged with beating the elderly man.

Testimony perplexed the magistrate, who wondered aloud how the elderly man could have sired a son in China when he had lived so long in Canada himself. The plaintify explained he went back on holiday occasionally. The magistrate recommended that the authorities look into the case.

In Hong Kong, the RCMP investigators learned plenty about the smuggling racket but their report will remain a secret, delivered first to RCMP Commissioner C. E. Rivett-Carnac. It is understood most of their work in Hong Kong was connected with existing dossiers and they found a staggering mountain of work and it took most of the seven weeks to wade through it.

Hong Kong Colony covers 250 square miles, with its north boundary abutting on Red China. In the Colony some 2,800,000 Chinese live and less than half are on Hong Kong Island itself. Yet reports indicate that last year alone, 2,100,000 people moved in and out of the Island.

Thousands of boats - junks, sampans and smaller craft ply around the coastline. Hundreds of them are engaged in the smuggling racket -- shipping "sons" and sometimes whole families to all parts of the world.

In many cases there is an element of slave labor in the deals. But in virtually all cases there is also the prime element of conspiracy -- silence.

The smuggling racket demands a small army of Hong Kong Police to deal with it. The Passport and Visa office is run by a police superintendent. The Commissioner of Police is also the Immigration Officer and every visitor is required to fill voluminous forms. But weekly by thousands and annually, by millions, the Chinese come and go. In and out of Red China, in and out of Hong Kong.

It takes 7,500 policemen -- half as many as the entire RCMP force -- to handle the Colony, which is about the size of seven Alberta townships. But to the people in the smuggling racket, Jasper Avenue in Edmonton, Pender Street in Vancouver, or Portage Avenue in Winnipeg are as familiar as the Island Causeway or the Shangha Bund, for that matter.

What the RCMP is now concerned about is, how big a part does Canada play in this world-wide Chinese smuggling racket? The answer may now be in the hands of officers Price and Medley.

In the early days of British Columbia, similar smuggling was practiced on an extensive scale, shortly after gold was discovered in the Cariboo. Legal immigration also grew to such an extent that a poll tax was imposed on Chinese. This tax ultimate grew to $500 a head and was shared jointly by the Provincial and Dominion Governments before being dropped.

Belief of some persons in close contact with the Chinese communities is that the present probe will start a cooling-off period so far as Edmonton and Vancouver are concerned. But it will be some time before details of RCMP action are released, for it requires covert police action to combat the covert smuggling of Chinese into the Canadian West.

Church Worries About Ex-Mayor's Introduction

Another look at the Porter report by the Alberta attorney general's department and the present city administration has been requested by the Edmonton Presbytery of the United Church of Canada.

The group urges the attorney general to see if any further action or investigation should be started "in order to insure the complete eradication of civic corruption," and they request the city administration to review and see that appropriate action is being taken to implement the recommendations in the Porter report.

A spokesman for the Edmonton Presbytery of the United church said the organization felt it had been put in a bad light after reports of former Mayor Hawrelak's speech to the MacDougall United Church Men's Club in the press. According to the report, club chairman Charles Hillis had introduced Mr. Hawrelak as "the best mayor Edmonton has ever had."

The spokesman added the Edmonton Presbytery group felt the wrong interpretation—as far as they were concerned—might be attached to the introduction. He said the group expresses its gratitude for the deep concern of the men who initiated and carried through the investigation, and they commend the high level of public service upheld by the judgment of the Porter commission and believe it to be the foundation of public trust.

The Canadian cost of living index reached an all-time high of 128 on October 1. This is two points higher than at the same time last year.

Athabasca County Council Prepares Winter Program

With all the members present, Councillor Parr was congratulated on his re-election as chairman of the Alberta School Trustees' Association at their recent convention.

Following the adoption of the minutes, the committee on the Clover View road reported. There are about three low spots in the road, and about 1½ miles will have to be rebuilt. The rest can be easily gravelled. It was estimated approximately $6,000 to $7,000 would be needed to get the road in good shape.

Committee reported on the Twin Spruce road. It was recommended it be classed as a contingency road for 1960.

The winter works program will be undertaken again this year and each councillor was requested to prepare a list of possible work in his area.

A request from the Boyle chamber of commerce for a seed cleaning plant was tabled till the next meeting.

Albert Brauer and C. Hitz were added to the safety committee. The council offered no objection to its employees entering MSI. Approval was given to an extension of REA to Wandering River.

Since the move to the new office at Athabasca is expected shortly, it was felt desirable to hire a caretaker. A committee of three was appointed to receive applications and engage the caretaker.

Report was given of a fire at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Buchanan and the action of Welfare Officer Hart is giving assistance was approved by the council.

Accounts were passed and meeting adjourned, to meet as a school committee on Thursday, Nov. 12.

Following the reading and adoption of the minutes of the October meeting, the following business was done: Assistant Secretary A. Burzloff reported a replacement for the Perryvale-Athabasca High School bus would be available on Saturday in Edmonton.

A report was made on the recent inspections of school buses done by a representative of the highway traffic board. The Calling Lake bus is reported as carrying too many children.

Arrangements have been made to rent a building to use as an additional classroom in Calling Lake. A caretaker has been hired at Lahaieville. Curtains will be purchased for those schools requiring them. Arrangements have been made to look after the lighting in the Boyle Library.

A complaint was received that one of the bus drivers was not going his entire route. A committee was appointed to investigate.

Following the adjournment for noon, Oscar Dakin met with the council in regard to his bus. He had not taken delivery of it until Thanksgiving day and there were several large repairs needed. Council agreed to assume responsibility for those repairs which were incurred before he took delivery.

Mr. and Mrs. John Keith, Mrs. Carothers and Mr. Sorokoski appeared before council in regard to the bus service on their road. They were informed a committee had been appointed to investigate.

A delegation in regard to power poles being placed on the fields was heard. William Ross, T. Horodowsky and Richard Shiminochek complained about the poles being placed approximately 10 to 15 feet inside the fence line. One of the councillors advised that in his district the farmers had had the poles placed 20 to 25 feet and they were to bother. The company had not requested permission, and the council agreed to write in this regard. A motion of council a couple of months ago set the poles not closer than 50 feet from the centre line of the road.

A request in regard to school bus service for a family at Atmore was discussed. After some discussion, it was established that no family was unable to send their children to the school of their choice; that attendance either way was not forced. (This point was proved by the gravelling of certain roads in the vicinity recently.)

C. E. Hitz, building supervisor, cleared up a few outstanding points with council in regard to coal bins; the plans for Calling Lake school; the garage there; heating; sale of surplus goods; work to be done on contract.

In view of his forthcoming departure to California, he was extended a hearty vote of thanks for the services he had rendered in his 20 years with the school division and county.

The salary of the caretaker at Smith was discussed; a letter regarding the teaching of Grade 12 at Smith was read; request for pay for election services was read; John Long, music teacher, requested five auto harps and council instructed the secretary to buy them.

Various complaints regarding late arrival of school buses were heard and council will check times. Bus drivers were to be written they must obey the instructions of the principal of the school in regard to parking, discharging passengers, etc.

A discussion in regard to the number of telephones and where they were to be connected in the county office took quite some time. Eventually it was decided to have three main lines, to the secretary, to the school supervisor and to the general office which latter would have extensions to the field supervisor and the board room.

Meeting adjourned to meet again Friday, Nov. 13. First was the report of the superintendent. He dealth with several personnel matters and announced that the honor pins had been presented at Boyle school and arrangements should be made for other presentations.

Classification and mileage of a school bus road was to be checked. After some discussion it was decided to accept the application to extend the bus service to the reserve children north of Calling Lake. A thorough inspection of school plants and of their fire extinguishers is a must under the fire protection act, council was reminded.

The resignation of C. Hitz was accepted with regret and a vote of thanks.

A personnel committee was appointed. Two questions of salary were left to the county-teachers relations committee.

Following the noon adjournment school flags were discussed. Most of the schools have flags, and there are several in storage. Flag poles were ordered for those schools not having one.

Following requests for purchase of several schools, it was felt that some were being put in use by the county and others would be evaluated and offered for tender again.

Reports were read from the school principals regarding noon supervision.

The school committee was concerned with the lack of recreation and playground facilities in the schools for pupils during the winter noon hour. A lengthy discussion regarding skating rinks in the various schools ensued and it was felt something concrete should be done. It was suggested up to $100 for each large school and left for the councillor to go ahead with the rink and authorized he spend up to the aforementioned amount in proportion to the size of the school and that where possible school equipment be used.

An application for boarding out allowance for a student outside the county was disallowed.

Motion was made to supply stoves to all schools with kitchens where there were no stoves.

Accounts were started. Following their approval, the members met briefly as a county council to approve the accounts and to re-elect Councillor Ed Loxam as deputy chairman for the next term.

Meeting adjourned.

THE Homemaker

By BERTHA M. McCUTCHEON

Now is the time to begin Christmas preparations if you want to avoid the last minute scramble. Prepare a list of the tasks that must be done. Many of these can be got out of the way this month.

B. McCutcheon

1. Food—Freeze as much of your baking as possible.
2. Silver — Polish the best flat silver, candlesticks and bon bon dishes. Wrap in plastic "Sara Wrap" until needed.
3. Table Linen—If necessary launder the cloth and other linen. Perhaps you would prefer a festive cloth of green or red fabric.
4. Cards—Get your supply immediately and don't forget the stamps. Write notes to include in the "extra special" ones. Do a few each day.
5. Gifts—Prepare your list. Many gifts can be made inexpensively. I have instructions for stuffed toys, cost slippers and several other items. Home baking, jam, jelly and pickles all make acceptable gifts. Purchase your ready-made gifts before the stores become crowded.

CHRISTMAS CAKE POINTERS

Fruit—Use only moist fruit. Dried out fruit causes the cake to crumble. To moisten, place the fruit in a sieve and pour water over it. Allow to drain well.

Nuts — Almonds rarely become rancid so are the favorites for fruit cakes. To blanch almonds, place in boiling water until the skins slip off easily, about five minutes.

Peel—should be cut very fine to give a delicate flavour, rather than chunks of bitterness.

Spices—should be creamed with the butter and sugar. Fat has a tendency to absorb and hold flavors so this insures an even distribution of spiciness.

Pans—should be lined with at least three thicknesses of oiled brown paper or one ply of oiled aluminum foil. It should extend an inch above the top of the pan to prevent scorching. Smooth the batter carefully in the pans.

Baking — Fruit cakes may be baked in a slow oven, 270 degrees or covered and steamed over rapidly boiling water. If steamed the covering should be removed and the cake baked in a slow oven until the surface is almost dry, about one-half hour. Steaming prevents burning and also allows you to cut the cake within a day or two.

Storing—cool the cake completely, leaving paper or foil in place. Wrap in more foil and store in a tightly covered container. Slices of apple placed on top of the cake before wrapping will keep it moist. Look at the stored cake every week because apple may become mouldy. If you prefer the cooled cakes may be wrapped and stored in the freezer.

SEBMA Told Market Research Aids Advertiser

Advertising agencies class themselves as marketing experts, Jim Cane, an accounts executive for Ronalds Advertising in Edmonton, told a meeting of the South Edmonton Business Men's Association.

"Marketing," observed Mr. Cane, "is the economic process of moving goods and services to their final destination—the consumer."

In research done by agencies to find the best way to sell an advertiser's product, media evaluation plays an important part, he said. The advertising must be directed at the right people. The agency must know, for example how many sets are in use by TV and radio listeners at any given time and they must consider the season and the nature of goods to be marketed.

Copy research is another important factor as it must result in sales action. The written sales message may be successfully used in one part of the country, but may lack force in another community.

Market reseach ranges from "nose counting" to sales trends, consumers' attitudes, while visual research forces an agency to analyze a successful company's past and present in order to determine the best eye-stopping tools and devices to gain the consumer's attention and interest, Mr. Cane explained.

At the meeting of the south Edmonton businessmen, Cecil Dilke was elected to succeed Reg. Burton as president, and Dr. Pat Gaudet and Les Lyons were named first vice-president and second vice-president respectively.

Also elected were 17 members to the association's executive: James Bateman, W. C. Bateman, Frank Cowles, Alf F. Dreger, Dr. Denis P. Hanlan, Dick Hanna, Adam P. Kibsey, ames Layton, Allan Manning, R. R. MacKillop, Norm McBeth, Ed G. Querengesser, Vic Ramsbottom, Syd Thompson, Harold Turnbull, George Wood and John A. Young.

Some people never hit the mark because they never pull the trigger.

ALBERTA'S FINANCIAL PICTURE VERY BRIGHT - THANKS TO OIL

The Albert government's financial picture for the current fiscal year is bright — thanks to oil.

Provincial auditor C.K. Huckvale announced the government ended the first six months of the year, with a net surplus of $14,000,000 after spending 163-million. The surplus is due to increased oil activity, particularly the sale of larger and more valuable oil leases.

Mr. Huckvale stated the increased oil revenue and reduced spending on highway construction which was only 70 per cent completed due to bad weather will like eliminate the $848,000,000 forecast by provincial treasurer Hinman in his budget address.

Oil and gas leases netted the government $50,000,000 during the April to September period, almost double the sales last year. Rentals and fees were up $2,000,000 to $16,000,000 dollars and royalties were up $1,000,000 at $811,700,000.

Smoliak Twins Saved From Burning Home By Children

MYRNAM — The five-year-old twins of Mr. and Mrs. John Smoliak, five miles northeast of this centre, were rescued in 10-degree below zero weather Friday evening, November 13 when fire destroyed the Smoliak farm home and all its contents.

The twins were rescued from the burning house by three other Smoliak children, Caroline, Jerry, and Albert, when they returned from school. Their father was away threshing, while Mrs. Smoliak was doing the evening farm chores. A volunteer fire fighter of the Myrnam brigade, Harry Haluschak, suffered leg injuries while fighting the blaze and is confined to hospital. His condition is reported as good.

Severe cold and a strong wind hampered the work of the volunteer firemen led by Chief Boris Melnyk. They were able, however, to save near-by buildings. The family car was removed from danger of fire by school bus driver, Mike Boyko. Origin of the fire is unknown.

John Mykyto, District Oldtimer, Established PO At Weasel Creek

THORHILD—John Mykyte, one of the early pioneers of this district, observed his 74th birthday at a party held at the Mykyte home recently. The party was attended by their sons and daughter, including Mr. Mykyte's sister Lucy (Mrs. Cam Fedoruk) and her husband, who came from Fort Francis, Ont. In addition to the birthday, Mr. and Mrs. Mykyte were able to observe their 50th year since coming in to this district. They settled on a homestead about eight miles east of Thorhild in October, 1909, where later Mr. Mykyte established the post office now known as Weasel Creek.

Mr. Mykyte came to Canada with his parents from the Ukraine in 1896 at the age of 11 years. After spending some time in Winnipeg, they settled on a homestead at Studborn, Man., now known as Gardington. Seven years later they moved to Minnesota, U.S.A., where Mr. Mykyte was married. In 1909 with his wife and two children, he came to Alberta and settled on a homestead in the place now known as Weasel Creek. Besides farming for a number of years, Mr. Mykyte hauled mail from Radway to Weasel Creek where he established the post office.

In 1930 Mr. and Mrs. Mykyte sold out at Weasel Creek and moved into the Thorhild district two miles south of here, where they farmed until retirement a few years ago. They are now living in Thorhild.

Four years ago Mr. and Mrs. Mykyte observed their 50th wedding anniversary. They have a family of four, two sons and two daughters, all married: Alexander, William and Mrs. Lena Baker of Thorhild, and Mrs. Mary Wolanski of Egremont. They have 20 grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

ABUNDANT LIFE

BY ORAL ROBERTS

TRY LISTENING TO GOD

A young school teacher in Massachusetts was confronted by a very dull looking class. To challenge their attention she tried an experiment. She said to them, "God is broadcasting all the time. George Washington and Abraham Lincoln listened to Him many times in moments of crisis. If you will tune in God's station, you will hear what He says."

The children bowed their heads reverently and were quiet. In a few minutes a little boy said, "I heard something. God told me to work hard and get better marks." Another said, "He told me not to talk in class." Another said, "God told me not to cheat on arithmetic." The class practiced this listening every morning and finally gave a play based on it before the entire school of 500 students.

Many of us wish we could have been in a school like that. But it is not too late to try listening to God.

I received a letter from a lady in Long Island, New York, the other day and I would like to share a portion of it with you. "... I had searched for God all my life. I tried many 'isms' and several religions without success. My life appeared to be full and successful, but in reality it was meaningless, void and full of anguish and heartache.

"As I read the Bible and some of your literature, things began to change in my life. Or perhaps it was I who started to change. At any rate, there was a ray of light where all had been darkness, and hope where only despair had been.

"Several months passed and I felt I was on the right road, but was not so sure what to do about it. I had been fooled before.

"I went to one of your Crusades and the presence of Jesus was really there! It is almost tangible. I closed my eyes and just listened. And I heard the voice of God echoing in my heart. The words were musical, saying, 'This is it—this is it—this is what you have been searching for all of your life—come, Jesus wants you now.'

"I was filled with an indescribable joy and rapture, love and compassion. I had never felt anything like it in my life before.

"I dedicated the rest of my life to Jesus to serve Him always and to be obedient to His will.

"I listened to the voice of God and His words slipped into my mind and are forever written on my heart: 'Peace—My peace I give to you—let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid—for I will be with you.'"

God is constantly broadcasting His thoughts and His words to His people. And as we daily practice His presence we come into a very intimate relationship with Him. We can get to know Him better than anyone else in the world and His voice will become very familiar to us.

Set aside your hour to listen. He will come to you. You can talk with God! It is your privilege and your blessing.

Parenthood Without Hokum

By Howard Whitman

PART 1

The "Kill 'Em With Kindness" Plan

(In this new series Howard Whitman, nationally prominent writer on social problems, reports on the re-discovery of the lost art or parenthood. His findings sweep away an accumulation of stuff and nonsense which has littered this vital subject for more than two decades. Parents are given confidence to BE PARENTS again, with the backing of new and down-to-earth trends in sociology and psychology.)

There is mounting evidence in the nation's family agencies and courts that the "let the child do as he pleases" theory of parenthood has backfired not only against society but against the very children who were reared that way.

Howard Whitman

It has produced neither well-adjusted nor creative, expressive children — as hoped for — but rather youngsters who are untrained for life and end up paying the price themselves.

Typical of the writer's findings throughout the country is the report from the Washing ton Institute of Mental Hygiene by psychiatric social worker Thelma DuVinage, in charge of intake:

"Some youngsters come to us who are just 'lumps'," she stated. "They have just been fed and coddled. Their parents' idea of raising them has simply been to do things for them—never to expect anything from them.

"If such a child complains about food, he is given other food—every complaint is met. If he feels like messing up the house or even breaking things, he is allowed to. The well-intentioned parents have been trying to make him 'happy'. They have had the idea that a child must be continuously happy but they have overlooked the fact that it helps the child to experience disappointment once in a while."

Such children, the case studies indicate, grow up with no sense of live and let live and no notion of society's basic equation: rights equal obligations. Moreover they are psychologically weak, with distorted egos. As Miss DuVinage put it, "These children have no sense of identity."

The story of a girl named Paula, culled from thousands of cases in the files of Family Service Association agencies, illustrates how the child eventually pays.

Paula is 14, eldest child in a family which could afford to send her to an outstanding private school. The case history notes, "Though Paula had a fired allowance she was able to get extra money anytime she wanted it by 'begging' or 'nagging'."

No Parental Controls

About a year ago Paula stopped resorting even to these measures. She simply went into her father's desk drawer, where household funds were kept, and helped herself. Her father made feeble attempts to discipline her, but gave these up because he felt, as he put it, "that discipline was old-fashioned." Paula was permitted to go out as many as five nights a week and no effective attempts were made to govern the hour when she came home. The case history notes "an almost total absence of controls."

Paula carried with her to the private school the pattern of behavior she had learned at home. Her case history ends with the terse line, "Last March, in the middle of the semester, Paula was expelled from school."

The most pathetic thing about Paula's father, a case worker remarked, was that he actually believed that he had given-in to the girl because he "loved" her. It took a long time to show this father the difference between love and neglect.

"Borrowed" a Car

In Baton Rouge, Louisiana, Judge Joe W. Sanders, of the newly established Family Court, reported another typical case. It concerns a boy of 15, whom we'll call Pete. Pete first got in trouble with the law for "borrowing" an unlocked auto and going for a joy ride. He was reprimanded and sent home. Before long he was back in court, this time on a serious charge of auto theft.

"I had to send him to training school," Judge Sanders related. "This boy had no idea of life in society. His mother had pampered him—she always took his side when his father tried to discipline him. Yet it was the mother who sat there and cried all during the court hearing. The father came up and shook my hand and said, 'You did what had to be done.'

"This mother had hurt, not helped, the boy. Perhaps she didn't realize that if he had more discipline at home he would need less in court. She pampared him right into bad boys' school."

Where did the "let children do as they please" idea come from?

The Great Experiment

It was part of a Great Experiment in human behavior over the past quarter-century.

It was an experiment to find out what would happen to the human being if you just let him grow. You weren't to train him. You weren't to be old-fashioned enough to give him moral precepts.

You weren't to interfere with the free development of his personality for fear of stunting or impairing it. The new human being was to grow untouched by restraint and discipline—and was in no event to be frustrated.

A prominent New York psychiatrist told me of an emotionally disturbed family in which the mother was under psychiatric treatment while her son also, age 9, was under care of a psychological therapist.

Tuberculosis was once considered a disease of youth. Last year in Canada more than 70 per cent of TB deaths were among persons 40 or more years of age.

FIGHT TB

BUY

CHRISTMAS SEALS

The therapist was an ardent follower of the Great Experiment. She encouraged every form of free expression on the part of the youngster. On one occasion the psychiatrist went on an errand with the mother and son in a taxi. As they left the taxi, the nine-year-old turned to the driver and said of his mother, "She's a b-----!"

The taxi driver was flabbergasted. All he could say was, "I'd never have lived to say that when I was a kid." This was an intuitive man-on-the-street reaction.

But the knowledgeable psychiatrist reacted quite the same way. He had the child discontinue treatment with the do-as-you-please therapist and placed under reasonable limits and controls. "And as a result," the psychiatrist commented, "both the mother and the child were better off."

A Mania for Coddling

The coddling mania probably reached its high point when a Canadian psychologist performed a series of experiments with rats and his findings were reported under the headline "Finds Coddling Makes Rats Healthier, Wiser." This was promptly seized upon by some of the enthusiasts of the Great Experiment, who leaped to the conclusion that what is good for rats is also good for children.

The idea of jettisoning discipline and the time-honored training of children was nowhere more warmly received than in Communist Russia. As Russia had appropriated even the natural sciences to serve the needs of Communist society, it was logical that it also should appropriate the social sciences. Letting children do as they pleased was seen as a helpful revolutionary tool in overthrowing the authority of parents and the home so that it might no longer compete with the authority of the state.

As recently as last March a Russian child welfare official warned on the Moscow radio that parents should not spank their children for this would "make children sly, untruthful, and fretful" and would render them "incapable of building the new Soviet life."

But many Americans are likely to believe it would be a better life for everybody if the Molotovs, Berias, and Vishinskys all had been given a few competent spankings along the way.

A Failure

From rats to Russia there has been little in the Great Experiment to indicate that it has been other than a blind alley. Those in the forefront of American sociology and psychology are today willing to admit that the experiment has been a failure and are pointing now to avenues of child rearing which promise greater progress.

Several such avenues will be described later on in this series. Instead of "free expression" and don't illustrate them," many leading impulses." But stripped of technical verbiage, the new trend and its implications were well-expressed by a young mother whom I overheard speaking to her eight-year-old boy when he had done something wrong.

"I don't blame you as a child for trying to get away with everything you can," she said — "but as a grown-up I wouldn't be doing you any good if I let you get away with it."

Next Week—"Parents Who Are Afraid To Get Angry." Distributed by The Register and Tribune Syndicate.

Canada's population is growing at the rate of 45 an hour or 1,089 people each day, reports the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. It is expected that the total population will pass the 18 million mark in October, 1960.

Shandro Remanded In Perjury Case

Paul Shandro, charged with perjury in connection with the judicial inquiry into Edmonton's civic administration, was remanded to the next sitting of the Alberta supreme court.

The remand was granted after Shandro's council, Abe Miller of Edmonton, reserved plea and requested more information about the charge.

Govt. Tallies Costs Election, Plebiscites

The Albrta government has spent more than $625,000 on the general election, a by-election, and liquor plebiscites this year. The election costs in the 1955 general election totaled $458,000.

The largest items in the election expenditures are enumerators' fees, printing and salaries for deputy returning officers and poll clerks.

JUST WHAT IS YOUR NEWSPAPER?

This question has many answers. Here are a few:

It's a public service

It serves this community with news, advertising, editorial comment, and entertainment. It promotes projects which it believes will make this a better place in which to live.

It's a manufacturing plant

It converts ink, paper, metal, and power into a finished product. It gives employment, year round, to heads of families.

It's a business

It enjoys full status as both a wholesaler (of newspapers) and a retailer. It plays its full part in the commercial life of the community.

It's a service establishment

It tries to give information and guidance both through its columns and personally through its staff. Its classified section is the local market place. It is the 20th century town crier and community counsellor.

It's the voice of the people

Its printed reports, comment and pictures mirror this community in such a way that we may understand both its problems and its opportunities. It is a vital factor in the operation both of free, responsible government and in the life of free, democratic individuals.
